

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

RECORDS OF THE HONORABLE SOCIETY
OF
Lincoln's Inn,

VOL. I.

ADMISSIONS

FROM

A.D. 1420 to A.D. 1799.

LINCOLN'S INN.

1896.

Lincoln's Inn.

At a Council there held the 2nd day of November, 1892,

IT WAS ORDERED :—

That an estimate be obtained of the cost of printing and publishing the entries of the Admissions to the Society in accordance with the Minute of Mr. Maxwell Lyte.

At a Council there held the 25th day of November, 1892,

The Steward reported that he had obtained estimates for printing the List of Admissions to this Society in a similar manner to the Gray's Inn Admissions Register.

ORDERED :—

That the same be printed by Mr. CARTWRIGHT upon the terms of his tender.

P R E F A C E .

THE Society of Lincoln's Inn, having resolved to print such portions of their Records as appear to be of permanent interest, have begun with the publication of Admissions to the Society from the earliest date for which materials are available. The first records of the internal administration of the Society are to be found in its Black Books. These are a series of volumes containing Minutes of the Proceedings of the Governing Body, from 1422 to the present time, in considerable detail. Among those Minutes are entries from which can be gleaned the names of those who were Members of the Society just before and in the year 1420, and the names of those subsequently admitted down to the year 1573; but in 1574 it was ordered by the Bench that a Calendar be made of those thereafter admitted to the Society, and thereupon the first volume of what is now known as the Register of Admissions was begun. It is, however, worth notice that the order of the Bench was made on June 21st, 1574, and was carried out by beginning the entries on November 2nd, 1573, the date of the commencement, then as now, of the legal year. For a short period after 1573 the Black Books and the Register both contain records of admissions, but, with that exception, from 1573 the authority for the lists of admissions in this publication is the Register of Admissions.

Full discussion of the Black Books may be reserved until the Extracts from them which are in course of preparation, are published; but an attempt must be made here to determine whether the names which are found in the early pages of the first volume of the Black Books are the names of the first or original members of the Society.

The character of this volume requires a few words. It is a paper book which has been rebound from time to time; the greater part of the entries are written in Latin, with occasional entries and memoranda in English and French. The first English entry is on fo. 20, and is an order relating to the Revels to be thenceforth kept in the Inn, dated on the feast of "Saynt Arkenewold the IXth year off Kyng Harry the vjth"—that is April 30th, 1431.

The first seven folios are taken up by a list of names of Members of the Inn, to which additions have been subsequently made in different handwritings, and to most of these names are appended the names of two manuceptores or sureties. The principals in the original list, ninety-six in number, seem, from later entries to have been at the time when each of their names first appears, full Members of the Society; and it was then the custom for each Member, so long as he continued a Member, to be bound with sureties for the payment of commons and dues. Subsequently (folio 8), in 1422, appears the first dated entry of a list of those "assigned to continue the Christmas Vacation in the Inn." The rule of the Inn was that each Member (socius) of the Society should, before he could attain the full privileges of a member of the Fellowship, keep the vacations of Easter, Autumn and Christmas for three years, making nine vacations in all;

and the entry referred to describes 12 as keeping their third Christmas, 7 as keeping their second Christmas, and 12 as keeping their first Christmas.

It can hardly, therefore, be doubted that we have here a list of persons who may be described in University Language as "in statu pupillari," and that those who were keeping their third Christmas cannot have been admitted later than 1420. Now the admissions for the years following 1422 averaged eight a year, and applying this average to the 96 persons before mentioned, it follows that some of them must have been admitted as early as, if not earlier than, 1408.

The question still remains whether the names of some of the 96 are those of the first or original Members of the Society, or, putting it another way, at what date did the Society come into being? If the internal evidence supplied by the Black Book is to be relied on, and this appears to be the best evidence obtainable, there can be no doubt the Society must have been in existence for many years before 1422.

This evidence may be shortly stated.

The Black Book does not refer to any of the Members as first or original, nor does it contain any reference to any previous volume, and it is probably, therefore, the first book in which the Society kept a connected record. The entries to which reference has been made, look as if the person who made the original entries on the first seven folios had 'opened the book' in 1422 by putting down the main stock in trade of the Society, i.e., the Members from whom the revenues of the Inn were collected, and followed this by the entry dated 1422 of those assigned to keep Christmas. It is nowhere stated by whose authority the entries are made, and indeed it is not until the year 1512, that a Keeper of the Black Book is mentioned, and the actual appointment of a Member of the Bench to that office is first recorded in the year 1519.

But the earliest minutes of the Black Book disclose a body bearing a corporate name, "Societas de Lincoln's Inn," with a formed and well established Constitution; its "Rulers or Governors" following one another in an apparently organized sequence, with authority over the Members, property and discipline of the Society, and enforcing their decisions and authority by censure, fine, suspension or expulsion; a settled form of admission based on suretyship, and an equally settled system of call to the Bar and invitation to the Governing Body. Such a state of things cannot have come suddenly into existence, but must have been the growth of many years.

This conclusion is supported to some extent by the tenor of the Treatise De Laudibus Legum Angliæ, written by Sir John Fortescue, about the year 1468. This eminent Chief Justice of the King's Bench (born about 1394) was a Member of Lincoln's Inn, and a Governor of the Inn in 1425, 1426 and 1429; and is probably the John Fortescue, Junior, mentioned (folio 2b) in the earliest list of sureties in the volume under consideration.

In his Treatise he deals with the Inns of Court and Chancery, putting them as Institutions on the same footing as the Universities which had then been nearly three centuries in existence, and as established places of education for the sons of the "Knights, Barons and the Greatest Nobility of the Kingdom," where they obtained the knowledge of the law which the Universities did not profess to give. Now, if his own Society had been founded only in 1420, or within fifty years of that date, the facts must have been in his knowledge; and as he makes in the course of his Treatise no less than four references to different matters in his professional recollection, it is difficult to account for no hint being given of his knowledge of the date and circumstances of the founding.

It appears, therefore, safe to infer that the Society was founded many years previous to 1420, and that the books do not contain the names of the first or original Members.

Admissions to the Society were of various kinds.

Admission as a Member of the Fellowship (ut socius) was the ordinary form of admission (see p. 8, and elsewhere). The person thus admitted sat at the Fellows' Commons.

Special admissions were admissions granted with certain privileges: such as exoneration from keeping vacations or serving certain offices; the right of sitting at the Masters, i.e., Benchers' Commons, instead of, as usual, at the Fellows' Commons until call, or the right of taking meals in the Inn without the necessity of going through any legal exercises, styled an admission "ad repasta" (Sir J. Lowther, p. 37).

Admission "ut clericus" (see p. 8, and elsewhere), was granted to students who sat at the Clerks' Commons with the Clerks of the Benchers, each Benchers being allowed to have a Clerk in Commons. The charges for Clerks' Commons were less than those for Fellows' Commons. At the Temples, the Students at Clerks' Commons had to assist in serving the meals, and it is probable the like rule obtained at Lincoln's Inn. The student admitted as a Clerk probably was poor, and held the same position as the batteller at Oxford, or the sizar at Cambridge.

The form of description on admission has changed from time to time. The earlier entries only give the name of the person admitted. In 1440 the first mention of the parentage of the person admitted occurs, when one Stanshaw "le Tierce," is mentioned as having as surety his father, Nicholas Stanshaw. Like entries occur for the most part when the father was a Member of the Inn. About 1608 it becomes the ordinary practice to mention the father's name; in 1612, the description "son and heir" marks the eldest or only son, and a few years later persons admitted are described as second or third sons, as the case might be. After 1563 the county of origin is generally mentioned, and in 1805 the age of the Student is first included in the entry of admission. Persons described as Barristers of the Inns of Chancery, first appear among the admissions in 1573 (p. 80).

Mr. W. Paley Baildon, F.S.A., a Member of the Society, has been engaged by the Society to prepare for publication the extracts from the Black Books already mentioned, and his assistance has been given in the publication of this and the succeeding volume of admissions. These two volumes had been printed from a transcript of admissions made by Mr. Joseph Foster, the proof sheets for the period during which admissions are comprised in the Black Books were laid before Mr. Baildon, and the Register for this period has thus an accuracy which it would not otherwise have attained. He has brought together the facts contained in this Preface, and supervised the sheets as they went through the Press.
